

Financial Peace of Mind with

EMPOROS MERCHANT SERVICES

The Merchant Services workflow in pharmacies is a challenge for many healthcare organizations. And unfortunately, there isn't much that organizations can control or change to reduce costs.

Until now.

Emporos has been leading the Pharmacy Commerce industry for over 20 years, providing its cloud-based point of sale solution, mobile POS, light-guided automated will call, inventory management, accounts receivable, and payroll deduction offerings to pharmacies of all types, including independent, outpatient, chain, specialty, mail order, and long-term care.

With Emporos merchant processing capabilities, pharmacies can gain peace of mind around their fees, stop getting price gouged, and bundle merchant processing with their current Emporos solution.

The Emporos Merchant Services Offering

Merchant services consists of 5 key elements:

1. Processing

There are dozens of payment processors in the U.S. and picking the right one for you can be a challenge. Emporos can help you identify the right processor and provide the support you need.

2. Gateway

The gateway is what connects a device to the processor. This can sometimes be the same vendor as the processor, but it could also be another vendor (and now you have two different vendors to manage).

3. Devices

Sometimes customers get their devices from their POS provider, including Emporos. Without Emporos Merchant Services, this is now a second or third vendor that pharmacies must work with to ensure their pharmacy can run successfully.

4. Reporting

How can you bring together all of the information you need to report on your pharmacy's efficacy if you are working with disparate data? Odds are, you can't report easily or in the way that works best for you. By combining your merchant services under one umbrella, this problem is mitigated.

5. People

So many vendors are involved in the 5 key elements of merchant services that it can be hard to understand who to contact when you have a question or need to troubleshoot an issue. Working with one vendor that can bring everything under one roof and offer you the support you need in an agile manner will eliminate a ton of burden, confusion, and broken workflows. Emporos can handle things for you such as filling out forms to buy new devices, speaking with hardware manufacturers, and taking the lead on hardware and vendor management, to name a few.

We're getting crushed by credit card fees.

This is a statement we hear all too often from pharmacies looking to enhance their commerce experience. Oftentimes, their hands are tied, and they must use multiple vendors, but that isn't the only option. You can streamline your merchant processing today for a much easier experience at a fraction of the cost.
